"Mother, I am going."

A young man, above the average in appearance, turned to a sweet, white-haired woman at his side and spoke the foregoing words, almost in a whisper. Then with eyes moist, chin steady, head erect and step firm, he walked rapidly down the aisle at the tent-tabernacle last night.

As he started an expression of joy swept over the mother's face. Then she gasped and swayed as though she were on the verge of falling. A young woman placed an arm about her shoulders and talked to her gently. Those near the woman gulped hard. The youth sitting in the penitents' row smiled through the earnest expression that gripped his countenance.

Fifty-Five "Lined Up."

He was one of fifty-five who lined up upon the invitation of Dr. Scoville. The evangelist had preached to nearly 2,500 persons on amusements. Somebody said the young man is prominent. He looked the part. Another said his mother had been praying for him for years, and none doubted that, as she was of the type who pray.

Dr. Scoville spoke on "Ten Plagues of American People." He named them as divorce, intemperance, corrrupt journalism, lynching, cards, dance, carnivals, gambling, murdering and municipal misrule.

More than 100 business girls who have been hearing Mrs. Arlene Dux Scoville at noonday luncheons attended in a body. They carried a huge banner and six of them responded to the invitation. The evangelist preached in top notch form, due to the storms of applause that greeted his remarks and the knowledge that scores of persons who dance and play cards in Maryville were in the audience.

Refers to City Incident.

In two instances he referred directly to things in this city. The first came when he said:

"A boy lined up for Christ in this meeting. His mother told the Godly pastor who told her of the boy's act to not let the child go one step further. All right, you poor misguided mother, you stop your boy and you may see the time you would give four finger nails and eyelids if that boy could be led to Christ."

Dr. Scoville was in fighting mood. He snapped defiance at his critics and lambasted dancing, card playing, divorce and what he terms other evils so bitingly that his audience often gasped.

"I have been told that if I don't preach about some things I will be paid more," he said. "God helping me I will preach the gospel as I see it. I don't want a dollar from a Christian Scientist or any other person who doesn't follow a pure gospel, nor do I want a cent from any one who follows sins of society. I'll take my company and walk out of town before I will compromise for a moment."

Early in his sermon he asked:

"Have I hit sin harder than I ought to have hit it in this campaign?"

Answer Was "No."

There was a chorus of "nos" from the audience.

"All right then," beamed the evangelist. "Get ready for something. I am going to hit it harder than ever tonight."

Time and again he stopped in the midst of a tirade against dancing and strode back and forth on the platform, his eyes flashing fire as though he dared anybody to rise up and dispute him. He branded the dance as an institution of hell and his voice broke as he described the tragedies the dance causes.

"If there is a question about an amusement, let it alone," he said. "You folks here, some of you, dance and play cards probably and not get into trouble, but there are others who are not so strong in mind or character as you are, and those folks are liable to stumble because of your example."

Did Not Touch Intemperance.

Dr. Scoville did not touch upon intemperance, as he expects to hit that Sunday in his booze sermon.

"I am your friend," he told his audience, "but I would be an enemy if I permitted you to go into hell through the dance hall and not warn you."

The evangelist took a back-handed slap at the yellow journals and then paid his compliments to the local papers.

"Thank God for the Forum and the Tribune,' he said. "Thank God for newspapers that will publish religious news as readily as other news. These newspapers have treated us royally. Give them a cheer."

The crowd cheered. The evangelist then cited statistics to prove that a large per cent of the big dailies are uncertain as to news.

"Who is Responsible?"

"Who is responsible for this campaign?" he asked before the sermon. "Well, everybody had a part. The business men, the preachers, the church members, the press, the singers, the boosters, the members of the company. Nobody knows who did or did not do the most, but thank God we have all worked.

"By the way, the business men have helped immeasurably. Thank God for Christian business men. I suggest that the business men's league meet monthly and talk civic righteousness. What do you say to that?"

The crowd applauded.

Fred Robinson made a brief talk, urging the thank offering for Sunday at the close of the services. Mrs. Scoville sang upon request "Did You Think to Pray?" She sang the solo early in the campaign and reepated requests that she sing it again caused her to include it in last night's program.

Scoville Sayings

Dancers nowadays appear in X-ray, lo and behold, full undressed, neither dressed up nor dressed down garments.

Some old skunk will say, "If I had thought you were going to talk like that I would not have come." Well, if I had thought all Nodaway county was made up of things like you I would not have come.

If you would stop boys gambling in saloons stop the women gambling in the rich homes.

Maybe I am a little old-fashioned, but here's one man who will never play cards, dance or go into a saloon except to fight it.

If I was a girl and married a dancing master I would knock out his teeth, put him in a cradle, give him a bottle and a nipple and try to raise him again and make a man out of him.

The biggest fool I know is the guy that pays $1.50 to let another guy hug his wife. What difference does the fiddle make in the hugging anyhow?

I'd like to see some old spindle-legged grasshopper try to put his arm around my wife. I'd invite him to the back alley and we'd one of us get a double header.

Furnish something more lively and sweeter in the church than can be found out of the church if you would keep folks in the church.

ESCAPES CITY JAIL

CHARLES MACKEY SAWS WAY OUT THROUGH BASEMENT.

HAD 35 DAYS TO SERVE

Was Arrested Fair Week, and Was Working Out Fine on Streets—Was Permitted Freedom of Corridor.

Charles Mackey, who claims his home is in Clarinda, sawed his way out of the city jail some time last night and made his escape. No trace had been found of him today.

Mackey was arrested by Chief of Police Shonley during the county fair week on a charge of prostitution. He was fined by Mayor Robey $50 and costs, and being unable to pay it, was committed to jail and has been working the fine out on the city streets. He has been a trusty at the jail. In other words, he was allowed the freedom of the corridor instead of being locked up in a cell. Yesterday he was working on the streets and smuggled in a hand saw when he returned to the jail last evening. He sawed an opening through the floor of the jail and made his escape through a window in the basement under the jail.

Mackey had thirty-five days yet to serve. The city authorities are making an effort to catch him.

A federal officer from Kansas City came to Maryville and it was thought at that time that Mackey would be charged with white slavery. The officer refused to do anything as there was not sufficient evidence to convict.

ROOSEVELT OPENS FIRE

Makes Ringing Appeal to Nation to Elect Chas. E. Hughes and to Repudiate Wilson.

Special to The Democrat-Forum

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 30.—Aheodore Roosevelt opened his campaign in the west this afternoon with a ringing appeal for the nation to elect Charles E. Hughes and to repudiate Wilson, thereby gaining a substitution of actions for meaningless phrasemongery. The speech was especially Rooseveltian, bitter in intensity, scathing in denunciation and bitter in sarcasm. He flatly charged that Wilson's action in the labor controversy was governed by the desire for votes. Mexico and the Adamson bill formed the chief lines of his attack.

FIRE DOES $1,000 DAMAGE

Out-Buildings on 40-Acre Farm of Mitchell Ray Burned—Hank Hudgens Tenant—No Insurance.

The outbuildings on the 40-acre farm of Mitchell Ray, now occupied by Hank Hudgens, were partially destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning.

The fire originated in the loft of the barn, which contained five or six tons of hay and the season's harvest of corn. The barn was entirely destroyed. A team of mules belonging to the Bedford Creamery Company was burned to death.

The hen house was also destroyed and part of the smoke house. Neighbors from all around came to aid in fighting the fire. The well was pumped dry, the last bucket putting out the last flames.

The house was saved. The damage is estimated at $1,000, and no insurance was carried.

GIVEN HER DIVORCE

MRS. CLARENCE PIVERAL WINS CONTESTED CASE IN COURT.

LUPPOLD CASE SATURDAY

Court Adjourns Late This Afternoon After Hearing Several Motions—Next Session Saturday.

Ethel Piveral was granted a divorce from her husband, Clarence Piveral, and also the care and custody of their two minor children, by Judge Ellison in circuit court this morning after several witnesses had been examined. Mrs. Piveral was represented by Cook, Cummins & Dawson, while Mr. Piveral was represented by Charles McCaffrey and M. G. Tate.

Piveral was contesting the divorce and charged his wife with infidelity in his cross bill.

Several of the witnesses testified as to the good character of Mrs. Piveral. The defendant charged his wife in his petition with improper relations with Milo Ashford, which was denied by both Mrs. Piveral and Ashford. It also developed that Piveral wanted Ashford to go on his bond last week when he was arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, which Ashford refused to do.

The divorce case took up all the morning session of the court.

In the libel case of Dora A. Davis vs. Chester Bancroft, plaintiff files motion for appointment of guardian for minor defendant, and the court appointed Howard E. Bancroft as guardian. The defendant files motion for cost bond, motion being confessed and asks leave to sue as a poor person.

The parole of Walter Ellsworth, charged with beating his wife, was continued when the court was informed that his behavior and conduct at home had been good.

Luppold Case Next Saturday.

The court granted Mrs. Clara L. Luppold $25 temporary alimony this afternoon in the divorce suit brought by her husband, Albert J. Luppold. The case was set for next Saturday.

Court adjourned late this afternoon until next Saturday.

"NOT GUILTY" PLEA

MRS. CLEMMA GILMORE APPEARS IN COURT THIS MORNING.

TRIAL DATE NOT SET

Attorneys Want Hearing After Adjourned Term of Circuit Court—Makes No Effort to Get Bail.

Mrs. Clemma Gilmore, charged with the murder of Mrs. Ella Shipps, appeared in circuit court this morning before Judge W. C. Ellison and entered a plea of not guilty. The case was not set for trial at this time as the attorneys for the state and defense wanted the case tried after the adjourned term of circuit court, which will probably be held in December. The attorneys will probably agree on the time late this afternoon.

Mrs. Gilmore was accompanied by her attorneys, W. A. Blagg and J. S. Shinabargar. The court room was about one-third filled with spectators. Mrs. Gilmore appeared very calm and displayed no signs of nervousness.

Nothing was said in court about bail, and it is thought that no effort will be made to get bail for her.

HELEN BURRIS WINS PRIZE

Gets First Honors in Baking Contest—Miss Garrett and Miss Reuillard Other Winners.

More than three hundred women attended the Majestic range demonstration of the Garrett Hardware Company on the big day of the exhibit, Thursday. Not a small part of this number was attracted by the biscuit baking contest, an event for girls. Some of the contestants apparently had training in this line of work while others declared that they had never baked before. But at any rate the judges, Miss Dora Carpenter of the domestic science department of the High School and Miss Hettie Anthony of the home economics department of the Normal, said that there were no really poor set of biscuits in the whole lot.

Miss Helen Burris receiver first honors, Miss Jennie Garrett, second and Miss Marie Reuillard, third.

During the demonstration both men and women took advantage of the delicious luncheon served at the store—honey, coffee, biscuits and butter.

Mr. W. O. Garrett of the company states that this was one of the biggest days that the store has seen in respect to attendance as well as sales made. The demonstration was well advertised and a page ad in the Democrat-Forum combined with follow up ads brought the excellent results.

More than two hundred measuring flour sifters were given away to women who visited the store during the week. The prizes for the oldest Majestic range has not been awarded on account of the time taken to look up records as to the ages of the ranges.

VICTORY FOR DRYS

WRIT COMPELS ROACH TO PUT AMENDMENT ON BALLOT.

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Action Means That Prohibition Issue Will Be Submitted to People at November Election.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Sept. 30.—A writ of mandamus was granted this afternoon by the supreme court to compel Secretary of State Roach to place the prohibition amendment on the ballot. This means that the amendment will be submitted to the people in the November election.

Nothing aroused so much excitement in the last decade among the dry forces as the refusal of Secretary Roach to place the proposed prohibition amendment on the ballot.

In a letter written to Charles E. Stokes of Clinton, head of the prohibition movement in Missouri, Secretary Roach gave for his reason for the action, saying that it clearly violated the federal law. He also said that it showed a clear intent to interfere with the interstate commerce.

The drys immediately got to work to compel Roach to place the amendment on the ballot. The decision of the supreme court this afternoon is the result and is a decisive victory for the drys in Missouri.

The frost is on the pumpkin and there is a lot of fodder in the shock.

"Pa, what does G. O. P. stand for?"

"It means Grave of Progressives, my son."

Next week is good roads week. Let's see how much good can be done to the roads of Nodaway county next week.

Judge Lamm seems to be very anxious to learn how much the state of Missouri owes. Does he intend to pay it, or just make somebody feel bad?

To make the case very simple for the progressives, a vote for Hughes means a vote for Penrose and Smoot in the Senate and for Cannon and Fordney and Mann and a return to Cannonism in the House of Representatives.

The ladies, it seems, won't be stampeded because the republicans captured a part of the woman suffrage organization. Out in the state of Washington the other day a meeting called by suffrage organizers from the east was stormed by a superior number of women of democratic sympathies who out-talked the others and finally captured the gathering and formed a "non-partisan woman's Wilson club." In the city of Washington, where nobody votes, the suffragists cut a wide swath, but when they undertake to tell the women of the west what to do they find themselves up against the real thing.

SISTER OF KAISER; GREEK QUEEN

Queen Sophia of Greece is said to have influenced King Constantine to remain neutral. She is a sister of Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

"WILSON'S ADVANTAGE."

Under the caption "Wilson's Advantage" the Des Moines Register, the leading Republican paper of Iowa, recently published the following editorial. Coming, as it does, from the leading Republican organ of Iowa, it is of especial interest and worthy of attention:

It might as well be recognized now as later that the Republican leaders have made three important tactical blunders in their opposition to the president. To those blunders much more than to the affirmative record of achievement he sets forth in his speech of acceptance he owes whatever strategical advantage he has in the campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt made the first of these blunders when he insisted that the president should have gone to war over the invasion of Belgium and later over the sinking of the Lusitania. All effective criticism of the president's foreign policy is now met with "he kept us out of war." The American people did not want to go to war, they do not believe now that we should have been justified in going to war, "he kept us out of war" is all we shall hear until the polls close.

Mr. Hughes made the second tactical blunder in that unhappy reference to Huerta in his opening speech. Nobody believes Huerta should have been recognized, everybody feels that the administration was right in refusing to have anything to do with Huerta. There was never a prospect of the least popular response to an attack on the administration because Huerta was turned down. All the blunders of the president's Mexican policy are now going to be covered by the plea that he has held the door open to the oppressed of Mexico to have better government.

The Republican leaders in the senate have made the third blunder in their united opposition to the eight-hour day for railroad workers. Of the three capital blunders we anticipate that the third will cost more in votes and in influence in the campaign. The eight-hour day was bound to come, nobody seriously questions the right of congress to order it. it is right as a fundamental proposition. Senator LaFollette was the only man of Republican affiliation to do what the plain common sense of the situation dictated.

Mr. Roosevelt enters the campaign bearing over-weight, to use a racing term, so does Mr. Hughes, and so does the Republican party, and while the handicap is not so serious that it may not be overcome, it is well to recognize that it is a handicap. Young Depew could win a 100-yard sprint after he had been set back a yard for anticipating the pistol. But neither he nor his friends underestimated what it meant to make up that lost yard.

Why our Republican senators, after making every effort to include in the eight-hour bill some provision against the sort of thing that had forced this emergency action, after fixing up a record they could appeal to the country on, did not vote for the eight-hour law must pass the common understanding. Every skilled trade has the eight-hour day. Nobody seriously questions the power of congress to make any reasonable regulation it pleases for interstate commerce. The American people did not want the railroads tied up over an eight-hour day. Practically everybody will approve the eight-hour day law now that it is enacted.

We might just as well recognize that the president enters the campaign under far more favorable conditions than his most sanguine supporters could have hoped for or than the record of his administration entitles him to. This does not mean that he is going to be re-elected necessarily. But it does mean that the Republican leaders have a much more serious undertaking ahead of them than many of them have been assuming.

PRESENT ENJOYMENT.

Get all the happiness you can from what you have. Few people, either rich or poor, make the most of what they possess. In their anxiety to increase the amount of means for future enjoyment they are too apt to lose sight of the capability of their means for the present.—Leigh Hunt.

The Moves In Chess.

In the number of possible moves chess stands alone among games, and not only is it perfectly safe to say that no living man has ever made even once every possible move, but it is highly improbable that in all the centuries of the history of the game has every possible move been made. The different ways of playing the first four moves on each side are so numerous that if every man, woman and child in a city of half a million population were to set to work playing them at the rate of four moves a minute night and day it would be more than a year before any one would be able to leave the chessboard.

High School Notes

By WILLIAM VAN CLEVE

High school notes will appear in this column at least once a week, usually on Saturday. The column will be devoted to the interests of the high school and high school students. Any suggestions, anything of interest happening at the school or of interest to the students will be appreciated.

The board of control of the High School Athletic association met in Superintendent McDonald's office Thursday afternoon. Secretary Lillian Carpenter issued the following statement:

A motion prevailed for the appointment of a committee on rules and regulations for governing the association. Prof. Magee and Martin Lewis, Jr., were named to serve on this committee. The board accepted and ratified the order given by Prof. Magee for football supplies. The bill for these supplies amounted to $85.00. Football games have been scheduled with the following schools at Maryville: Stanberry, Tarkio and Albany; away Stanberry and Albany. The dates for these games will be announced later.

The beginning seniors held a meeting in Miss Rooker's room Thursday afternoon. They decided to hold a wiener roast Wednesday night in the grove near Hastings lake. It might be well for farmers in the vicinity to keep an eye on their chicken coops, apple orchards and anything else they value.

* * *

The beginning seniors were also ordered to get busy on a class song to find a suitable motto for the class.

* * *

The advanced seniors are much too busy to engage in any such frivolities as picnics. They are preparing a program to be presented at assembly which will excel all efforts by former classes. If you don't believe it prepare to be convinced.

* * *

That popular institution, the ninth hour, is not being very well patronized thus far. The attendance is composed mainly of freshmen, with a few sophomores, and an occasional junior. It is seldom that a senior so far loses his proverbial dignity as to grace this room with his presence.

The high school library is being completely rearranged and classified. The work is being done by Miss Van Buren, assistant librarian of the Normal. C. Edwin Wells, the chief librarian of the Normal, is supervising the work. Mr. Wells says he intends to make this library the model high school library of the state. Miss Van Buren also compliments us on our library. She expects to have all the books placed by Monday, and all the work completed by the last of next week. The system of classification is the one in general use all over the country.

There are something over a thousand books in the library, consisting of fiction, Biblical works, mythology, political science, phylology, science, physiology, music, literature, history, biography, geography and travel. The departments of literature, history and biography are unusually strong for a high school library. The history department is stronger than those in some schools of college rank.

* * *

An assembly will be held Monday. At this time an announcement will be made of a special assembly on Thursday to work up enthusiasm for the opening of the football season. The first game of our season will be played at Stanberry next Friday, and it will help the team greatly if we take over a large crowd of rooters. The team has been practicing faithfully and it is now up to the students to do their part.

* * *

The hearts of students are being made glad by numerous tests and promises of more to come.

* * *

Before the test:
God of our fathers, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.
After the test:
God of our fathers was with us not,
For we forgot, for we forgot.

* * *

In taking stock of the books in the high school library, books were found belonging to the following persons who are not now in school:

Georgia Evans.
Goff Crawford.
Ed Kirch.
G. D. Saunders.
Lloyd Hartley.
W. H. Crawford.
James Protzman.

If these persons will come or send for their books they may have them. If they are not claimed they will be added to the library.

What Does Catarrh Mean?

It means inflammation of a mucous membrane somewhere in the head, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, biliary ducts or bowels. It always means stagnant blood—the blood that is full of impurities. Left alone, it extends until it is followed by indigestion, colds, congestion or fever. It weakens the system generally and spreads its operations until systemic catarrh or an acute illness is the result.

Peruna

Is the nation's reliable remedy for this condition. It restores appetite, aids digestion, checks and removes inflammation, and thus enables the membranes, through which we breathe and through which our food is absorbed, to do their work properly. Forty-four years of success, with thousands of testimonials, have established it as the home remedy—Ever-Ready-to-Take. Its record of success holds a promise for you.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S SANE COURSE IN AVERTING RAILROAD STRIKE

Jackson Johnson, of St. Louis, a millionaire and vice-president of one of the largest shoe manufacturing concerns in the United States, showed his displeasure at the President's course in averting the nation-wide railroad strike by, in a pet, resigning from the Wilson Club. A thousand men filled the vacancy a thousand times by stepping up and enrolling on the roster from which Mr. Johnson's name had been erased. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch's criticism of Mr. Johnson's hurried conclusion is unanswerable. It follows:

THINK AGAIN, MR. JOHNSON.

Mr. Jackson Johnson, St. Louis manufacturer, while admitting that a railroad strike would have cost his company $200,000 a month, asserts that he has been unable to get anyone to explain to his satisfaction how President Wilson's course was right. Very well.

If Mr. Johnson's factory should catch fire would he have the fire department stand around and argue how the building laws should be revised or would he have them start immediately to extinguish the blaze?

If a surgeon is called upon to perform an operation to save a man's life, would he have him first prepare a thesis on the wrong mode of living which made the operation necessary, and outline a future standard of conduct, or should he go ahead at once and operate?

If, to save a city from destruction by flood it became necessary to cut a dike and submerge a farmer's wheatfield, would it not be better to do that than argue over future methods of flood control?

Congress, under its instructions in the Constitution to provide for the general welfare, is a fire department, a board of health, a policeman, a guardian—it is everything.

In regard to the railroad crisis one fact must never be forgotten. The brotherhoods were quite within their rights in deciding upon a nation-wide strike. There was absolutely nothing the authorities could do to prevent their action.

The brotherhoods did not hold up the President in the eight-hour day. As a mediator between the railroads and the employes he believed the eight-hour demand just. He accepted it as a basis for arbitration and the labor leaders agreed to his plan. He tried to get the railroad presidents to accept this plan of arbitration, but failed. He did not go to Congress until after the strike was called, when there was no possibility of stopping it except by assuring the unions an eight-hour day. He then recommended that Congress enact the eight-hour day with provision for arbitration and other legislation which would provide for the burden of additional cost and prevent similar situations in the future.

Granting the unions were wrong in their attitude, the President dealt with the situation in the only way to save the country from immeasurable calamity. He and Congress were flooded with telegrams from business organizations and business men urging them to avert or postpone the strike. They did it without injury to any interest or sacrifice of principle.

Is there a business man who has not saved his business from disaster by concession even on points he thought wrong? What would be thought of a business man who would wreck his business rather than yield a just point merely because he thought his opponent stubborn and wrong-headed?

In the emergency the President and Congress obeyed the old Roman maxim—"Public welfare is the supreme law." A prolonged railroad strike would have cost the people of the United States hundreds and hundreds of millions and unestimable suffering which no future legislation could have squared. The settlement made by Congress has prevented all that loss and misery and has done no injustice for which future laws cannot provide compensation.

Moreover, it has done this—it has convinced the entire people that Congress must speedily take such action as will forever make a similar situation impossible.

When Mr. Johnson gives more thought to the subject in its varied phases as a great business crisis threatening irreparable disaster, we believe he will agree with Mr. Edison, who is also a great manufacturer, that the President handled the situation with "sanity and courage."

Floyd F. Miles, publicity manager for Dr. Scoville, departed today for Coffeyville, Kan., where Dr. Scoville will conduct his next campaign, starting Tuesday evening.

Slow Parting.

William Dean Howells, the novelist, was talking about a poet.

"His work is overrefined, overdelicate, overnice," he said.

"In short, his work reminds me of the young husband who said to his bride at the end of the honeymoon:

"'Darling, I'll have to leave you every morning hereafter to go to business; but, to make the parting less abrupt, I'll no longer take the 8:15 express, as I used to do. I'll take the 8:20 slow accommodation.'"

J. J. HILL GUESSED WRONG.

Railroader Predicted That St. Paul Would Never Amount to Much.

St. Paul.—There are few men who can challenge successfully the foresight of the late James J. Hill, but Captain Jerry Turner of Lansing, Ia., who visited St. Paul for the first time in fifty-two years the other day, is one of them.

Captain Turner relates how he overheard Mr. Hill make the assertion that St. Paul never would remain long as the head of navigation on the upper Mississippi, and that was more than a half century ago.

"I was then plying the upper Mississippi on the steamer City Belle," Captain Turner said. "Mr. Hill, who at that time was clerking on the wharf, was aboard the boat discussing prospects with the captain.

"Wacouta is the logical head of navigation on the Mississippi," Mr. Hill said. "St. Paul cannot long retain the distinction for this reason. Just as soon as the farm lands on the upper Mississippi are well under cultivation the upper channel is bound to fill up, and boats of any consequence will be unable to ply that far north."

BOY TO GET A MILLION.

Youngster's Fortune Will Accumulate For Nineteen Years.

Greenwich, Conn.—William J. Smith Cary, the two-year-old son of Thomas F. Cary, a grocer here, according to estimates made recently, will receive $1,000,000 from the estate of his grandfather, William J. Smith, when he reaches his majority. According to a final distribution made in the probate court, his share of the Smith estate at the present time is $336,225.68. Mary Smith Woodcock, wife of Arthur Woodcock, a daughter of the testator, receives $340,225.68. The bulk of the estate, valued at $1,190,740.14, was left in the hands of trustees for Mrs. Woodcock and the Cary boy.

Mr. Smith accumulated his fortune by investing in real estate here several years ago when property could be purchased at a low figure.

YOUNG INDIAN JOINS THE NAVY

Kansas City, Mo.—Albert Taylor of Tahlequah, Okla., Cherokee Indian and owner of valuable oil and gas fields in Oklahoma, brought his son, Albert Taylor, Jr., eighteen years old, possessor in his own right of Indian allotments of valuable oil lands, to the naval recruiting station in the federal building to be enlisted in the navy.

Taylor said at the recruiting office he believed the navy the best training a young man could have, and he intended to enlist his two younger sons as soon as they became eighteen years old. He was enlisted in the naval militia in California when a young man and said he had been greatly benefited.

FALSE TEETH VALUABLE.

Industrial Accident Commission Says They Must Be Paid For.

San Francisco.—"Store teeth" are just as good as those furnished by nature in the eyes of the state industrial accident commission.

A San Francisco plumber was struck by a piece of pipe he was repairing, with the result that three teeth, two false, were knocked out. His employer was willing to pay for the dental work necessary to fill the void left by the natural teeth, but balked in the case of the others. The commission has ruled that he also must pay for replacing the man made pair.

BURIED $6,000 OF PENSION.

Cal Evans' Hoard Plowed Up on His Farm at Magazine, Ark.

Magazine, Ark.—Gold and silver currency to the amount of $6,000 was plowed up on the farm of the late Cal Evans by his son-in-law. Evans' children say the money was buried by their father, who died refusing to tell where it was concealed.

The sum represents pension money Evans had drawn from the government for twenty years. As soon as his vouchers arrived he always cashed them and then buried the coin.

LEPER COLONY FOR HOLLAND

Amsterdam.—Holland is to have a leper colony. The country is exposed to the leprosy danger owing to the great traffic with its East and West Indian colonies, and there are estimated to be roughly between thirty and forty sufferers from the disease already within its borders.

Rooster Attacks Baby Boy.

Joliet, Ill.—Leo Palace, two years old, was attacked by a rooster which he was trying to chase, and as a result he is in a serious condition. The rooster turned on him, and the baby, in endeavoring to escape, fell. The rooster pecked him in the head, striking a suture in the child's skull with his beak, rendering him unconscious.

Communication

Defends Christian Science.

Editor Democrat-Forum: Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us; and we forbade him, because he followeth us not. But Jesus said, "Forbid him not; for there is no man which shall do a miracle in My name, that can lightly speak evil of Me. For he that is not against us is on our part"—Mark 9:38-40.

The Master's counsel to John might with advantage be accepted by those of Christ's disciples today who traduce that denomination of Christians known as Christian Scientists. Disclaimers against Christian Science either do not arrive at the facts, or arriving refuse to acknowledge them. It is not enough for one to read the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, to qualify as a righteous critic. He must understand it. A man may read the Bible and declare it to be a hopeless jumble of inconsistencies, but such a critic does not understand the Bible. No man can understand the Bible and fail to love it. No man can understand Science and Health and fail to love both it and the Bible. When one understands the teachings of Christian Science, he finds it to be identical with Christ Jesus' doctrine, and that it varies from other Christian sects mainly in its greater degree of spirituality. Christian Science does not accept the materialistic explanation of God, of man or of the universe, and hence emphasizes the spiritual import of the Bible. But this does not mean that Christian Science repudiates any part of God's scheme of salvation. Far from that—Christian Science insists upon an understanding of every essential of Christianity.

Where does Christian Science place Christ Jesus in the scheme of salvation? In the words of St. Peter, "There is none other name under heaven among men whereby we must be saved." Christian Scientists believe in the immaculate conception, in Jesus' supreme and selfless sacrifice, in the example His life furnished for all mankind, in His own designation of Himself as the Way. They believe in the divinity of Christ, the humanity of Jesus, the atonement, the crucifixion, the resurrection, the ascension. They believe in repentance, forgiveness of sins, reformation. They believe in spiritual baptism and sacrament. They believe in prayer. They believe in Christian healing. They believe in the Golden Rule. Above all, they believe the essentials of Christianity involve individual practice more than profession.

To be sure, Christian Science does not agree fully with other Christian denominations in the interpretation of the Bible, but let it be reiterated that Christian Science accepts the Bible in its spiritual import unreservedly. When the other Christian sects subordinate the material to the spiritual, they will comprehend how it was possible that Mrs. Eddy, although maligned and persecuted, reviled not again, but wrote instead: "I love the orthodox church; and, in time, that church will love Christian Science." (Miscellaneous Writings, page 11.) Again, on page 13 of Christian Science vs. Pantheism, she exhorts: "Love all Christian churches for the gospel's sake; and be exceedingly glad that the churches are united in purpose, if not in method, to close the war between flesh and Spirit, and to fight the good fight till God's will be witnessed and done on earth as in heaven." Christian Science is the revival of primitive Christianity, it casts out sin and heals the sick. In fifty years it has encompassed the earth with the gospel of salvation from sin, disease and death. It has brought the evangelic message to millions—"Fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."

PLEASE TELL US, MR. HUGHES?

As you talk from day to day, Mr. Hughes,
We are reading what you say, Mr. Hughes,
We are carefully a-weighing
Every word that you are saying,
As the President you're flaying, Mr. Hughes.

You're emitting lots of noise, Mr. Hughes;
We're afraid you've lost your poise, Mr. Hughes;
Malediction so terrific,
And your charges so prolific,
Should be rendered more specific, Mr. Hughes.

You say things most unkind, Mr. Hughes,
'Bout when Wilson changed his mind, Mr. Hughes,
'Spose you write us all a note
Telling when you changed your coat,
So's to favor women's vote, Mr. Hughes.

You were Governor of your state, Mr. Hughes;
Your repentance is too late, Mr. Hughes;
Did you not then put the ax
To the Federal income tax?
You should cover up your tracks, Mr. Hughes.

And the bill for two-cent fare, Mr. Hughes,
When you occupied the chair, Mr. Hughes—
Did you sign that little measure,
And thus save the people treasure?
No, you vetoed it with pleasure, Mr. Hughes.

You are often heard to speak, Mr. Hughes,
Of our policy being weak, Mr. Hughes;
It is cheap to sing that song—
Say exactly what is wrong—
Tell us how YOU would be strong, Mr. Hughes.

Oh, you make an awful mouth, Mr. Hughes,
About our neighbors in the south, Mr. Hughes.
Will you tell us what you mean?
Would you have us intervene?
That would make a bloody scene, Mr. Hughes.

We have enemies Castillian, Mr. Hughes
Who would fight us by the million, Mr. Hughes;
But an enemy far greater,
Is the lying agitator—
He's the vilest form of traitor, Mr. Hughes.

He regards you with affection, Mr. Hughes,
And will work for your election, Mr. Hughes;
War of Conquest he is framin',
For this trouble he's to blame, an'—
He should hang as high as Haman, Mr. Hughes.

You have wept and you have wailed, Mr. Hughes,
That the Democrats had failed, Mr. Hughes;
We would know just how you feel
If they gave us a new deal.
Just what laws will you repeal, Mr. Hughes?

While you're speaking of "free trade," Mr. Hughes,
Why not call a spade a spade, Mr. Hughes?
Do you think you'd win applause
If you'd say the tariff laws
Should be back to where they was, Mr. Hughes?

Would you win the nation's thanks, Mr. Hughes,
By restoring to the banks, Mr. Hughes,
All the power, and some more,
That they had in days of yore,
When your party had the floor, Mr. Hughes?

Will you dare to put the ban, Mr. Hughes,
On the Democratic plan, Mr. Hughes,
Of making armour plate
And potassium nitrate
In a place owned by the state, Mr. Hughes?

And "deserving Democrats," Mr. Hughes—
Won't you kick them in the s'ats, Mr. Hughes?
If this contest you have won,
Won't you have a lot of fun
In displacing every one, Mr. Hughes?

You orate like all creation, Mr. Hughes,
Of the "honor of the nation," Mr. Hughes;
Would you make her fight with John or
Kaiser Wilhelm just for "honor"
And bring woe and grief upon her, Mr. Hughes?

Do you think you'd have been wiser, Mr. Hughes,
In handling King or Kaiser, Mr. Hughes?
Would Bernstorff have packed his trunk
When the Lusitania sunk,
Or is your talk all bunk, Mr. Hughes?

There is wisdom in restraint, Mr. Hughes,
Though you may insist there ain't, Mr. Hughes;
It is full as brave to labor
To be peaceful with your neighbor
As to stab him with a sabre, Mr. Hughes.

No more noble man, I'm thinkin' Mr. Hughes,
Since they killed th' immortal Lincoln, Mr. Hughes,
Than the one's that in that chair.
And if you should get in there,
You would rattle round for fair, Mr. Hughes.

Three yearlings by Harrigan. Dams Willie T., Sharp and Beatrice Sulae

Nodaway county has her fine farms, thoroughbred stock and bountiful crops, and last but not least, in the Ben A. Jones thoroughbred breeding farms, she has, within her borders, one of the finest stables of racing yearlings and thoroughbred brood mares in the state of Missouri, if not in the middle west.

One-half mile north of Parnell lays the Jones private half-mile race track, level as a floor, the fences and buildings painted white and green. Here the yearlings are trained and worked on the track. The stable has stalls for 22 head and until Thursday of this week was filled with thoroughbred yearlings, each so gentle and well broke that a child could handle it. Every horse on the place is given the best of care and treatment.

Has Breeding Farm.

Southeast of Parnell is the Jones breeding farm. Mr. Jones has been building up his breeding farm, weeding out all scrubs, and now has 40 head of the best thoroughbred brood mares in the country. In this bunch are winners of races on nearly every track in the country. There are 28 weanling colts on this farm and each one looks a future winner.

It has been estimated that the total winnings of his stallions and brood mares on the track in past years has been over half a million dollars. When asked about racing in the future, Mr. Jones said, "Racing is coming back strong, especially in the east. Good runners are commanding big money."

Mr. Jones has bred the leading winners at the Juarez, Mexico, track the last three years. In 1913, Blue Racer was the largest winning 2-year-old. In 1914, Julia L was the sensation at the Juarez track and was sold in Kentucky for $3,500. In 1915, Waunita Frederick was a winner. Last year the Mexican trouble practically put racing out of business at Juarez.

"Dope" on Best Horses.

The following is the "dope" on the four stallions, Harrigan, Blues, Seth and Waldo, that make up the Jones stud barn:

Harrigan was a two-year-old in 1908 and he started seventeen times, winning seven races and $5,335. As a three-year-old he started twenty-six times, winning eleven and $7,205. He started sixteen times as a four-year-old, winning three and $3,040, and as a five-year-old he started twenty-seven times, winning five and $4,300. He won in the four seasons $19,880. Among the stakes that he won were the Golden Rod Stakes, Crotona Handicap, Van Cortlandt Handicap, San Lorenzo Handicap, El Cantaniario Handicap, El Paso Handicap, etc.

Harrigan is royally and most fashionably bred. He has all to recommend him for the stud, being a horse of high conformation, rich pedigree and superior racing qualities. He has in his veins the Eclipse, Herod and Matchem blood and he gets his blacklock cross through the celebrated Velocipede line. The far back lines of his pedigree are of the oldest and most famous of those which trace with ages to an Orintal source. With anything like an average chance, Harrigan's future in the stud as a sire of stake winners of a high class is most rosy.

Blues a Stake Winner.

Blues, a stake winner of $62,805. This horse won $8,930 as a two-year-old, capturing the Tremont stakes. At three he won eight races and $27,190. At four he won the Century Stakes, worth $11,700, distance of 1¼ miles in 2:33 1-5. Blues was a good race horse and, as is well known, when at his best was hard to beat, no matter what weight he carried or how far he was asked to go. When he was defeated it was always by a good horse.

Waldo was about the most brilliant performer, especially as a two-year-old, that was ever located in the stud west of Kentucky. From all accounts he was never beaten at that age when in his best form. When in perfect form he was as unbeatable in the season he raced as was the sensational Colin in his year. Had he met with no mishap in the spring of his three-year-old form no one questions but that he would have won the Kentucky Derby in 1910.

Seth, chestnut horse, by Adam, out of Purity by Deceiver. Winner of a number of stakes and purses. The great horse, Adam, was sold to a French syndicate for $125,000.

From Family of Jockeys.

Harry Garner, the Jones leading exercising boy, comes from a family of jockies. His brother, Guy Garner, has won an international reputation as a jockey. He rode in England several years and at one time was under contract to the Czar of Russia. Another brother, M. Garner, is riding for Corrigan & McKinney in Kentucky, the largest racing stable in America today. Harry has been with Mr. Jones for several years and relates many interesting stories about the Mexicans in Juarez. He has seen many Mexicans "shot at sunrise" in true Mexican style.

Eighteen yearlings were shipped from the Jones farm Thursday to the Douglas Park track at Louisville, Ky. Several exercising boys and trainers accompanied the car to care for the horses. These horses will winter there and will have the advantage of working on a good track and be in shape for the spring racing.

Three Generations Baptized.

Frank Martin, his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Woods, and Mrs. Woods' son, Frank Snow, were all baptized by the Rev. Hale of the Baptist church this week. Mr. Martin is 56 years old and had never joined a church. These three persons represent three generations of one family.

The John Elliott farm sold for $110 an acre at public sale on Wednesday of last week. The farm contains 80 acres, and is a good tract of land, but in bad condition. The improvements are not worth much—probably $100 would be near their value aside from the fencing. At the same time a cow sold for $102.50 and her calf for $16. The horses did not sell well, being mostly small.

Mrs. W. C. Farquhar went to Savannah last Tuesday to the cancer hospital to consult them about a growth on her left hand.

The Chicago Great Western is spending considerable money in placing a dam across Platte river a short distance south of the pump station. It will be three feet and six inches high and will afford the company plenty of water.

Miss Evadne Batt expects to attend the Maryville Conservatory of Music this fall and winter. Miss Evadne is one of Parnell's most accomplished musicians, and we predict she will make further progress in this line by attending this noted college of music.

BARNARD BULLETIN.

Mrs. Jim Campbell and children and Mrs. Matt Baker, Jr., of Nebraska, are here visiting with M. M. Baker. One of the children happened to a very serious accident the first of the week. It swallowed some gasoline. A doctor was summoned at once and the child's stomach was washed out and an antidote given. It is improving at this time.

Robert Goff brought into the office an old curio that is indeed interesting. It is a picture of Abraham Lincoln written in his Emancipation proclamation and so shaded that the outline of his features stand out boldly. The writing was done by W. H. Pratt of Davenport, Iowa, and designed so that it has an oval shape with a nice pen border around it. Mr. Goff purchased the writing while on his way home from the War of the Rebellion in '65, for $2.00. He has since been offered a nice sum for the curio but says it is not for sale.

The Barnard postmaster, Clyde Perkins, the biggest officer in the civil service, received word Thursday that the Barnard postoffice had been placed in the third class, effective October 1. Whether the advancement of the postoffice is due to the efficient work of our present postmaster or not is a question that does not bother us, for we wish to see him continue in his present position. We understand that he has circulated a petition among the patrons of this office asking for his re-appointment. The office will now carry a salary of $1100 a year.

CLEARMONT NEWS.

L. L. Hart, south of town has been quite sick for several days and it has developed into typhoid fever, and on Tuesday his wife took him to the Kenilworth hospital at Clarinda for treatment. His father, S. Hart, came down from College Springs yesterday to look after things on the farm.

Mr. Bodle will at once commence work and remodel the building into a garage and will commence business at once. He is a graduate from an automobile school and has also had two years experience in the garage work. He will move his family here as soon as he can secure a house. Robert Pence who has been running the poultry, cream and egg business in the building, at once rented the old Dr. Dowell office on Main street and will use it for the present. We extend the hand of welcome to Mr. Bodle and hope his relations in his new home may be pleasant and profitable.

RAVENWOOD GAZETTE.

Uncle Jeff Larmer is not so slow as will be noticed by the following: On Tuesday of last week he sold to James Horton 35 head of hogs which netted him the neat sum of $541.65. This is about the third time he has done this this summer, and we are told he has just as many left, which will be ready for market later on. If Uncle Jeff don't let up we are going into the hog raising business ourselves, providing, of course, Uncle Jeff agrees to put us next as to how it is done.

Last Sunday Emmit McCrery suffered a paralytic stroke and for a time his chances to live were slim, but we are more than glad to announce that at this writing he is on a fair way to recovery.

Miss Miranda Ross went to Savannah last Saturday to accompany her father home. Mr. Robert Ross had been at the sanitarium at that place taking treatment. As far as we have learned Mr. Ross is feeling much better than before he went.

James DeLong and John Holeman, who are receiving large salaries for keeping correct measurements of the rainfall in Ravenwood, differ widely on the amount of rain that fell Tuesday night. James says 2 1-4 inches, and, of course, he's right. John says 1 3-4 inches, and he, too, is right. Who is right; that's what we want to know.

BURLINGTON JUNCTION POST.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller, who spent a week visiting relatives in Nebraska, report that the roads were finer than silk west of the Missouri river, and we are compelled to take this as gospel room the number of favorable reports heard from tourists motoring in Nebraska this year. On their return trip Mr. and Mrs. Miller drove about 260 miles in one day.

Frank Adams did some fast and furious buying in Atchison and Holt counties last week, according to reports of the papers in the town where he was billed. He shipped 72 head of good stock from Mound City and Bigelow last Friday and Saturday. Adams could almost supply the Allies with horses and mules if he had sufficient territory to cover. He is buying in Nebraska this week.

The condition of Mrs. Harry T. Wilson, who is confined in the St. Francis hospital following a surgical operation, continues to improve. She has been gaining steadily and will probably be able to come home in two weeks.

Rev. W. H. Rust and Rev. Horace S. Weaver returned last night from Pattonsburg where they were attending the seventh district convention of the Christian churches. They report this the best convention ever held in the district, over 150 delegates being present, and men of national prominence among the disciples appeared on the program. The convention will come to Burlington Junction next year.

The bungalow being built by R. H. Rees in the east part of town is the first sure-enough, honest-to-goodness bungalow, from foundation to roof, in town. The ends of the rafters are left exposed, the porches are of true western type and the arrangement of the interior is the most modern. The exterior is being painted in true bungalow colors, the sides in brown stain, the roof in green and the trim in white.

CONCEPTION JUNCTION COURIER.

The Township Board is doing some fine work on the roads over the township. The best piece of work was done east of the T. E. Archer place. The board, however, experienced some difficulty in arranging the matter of paying for the labor for this piece of work. The matter, however, was satisfactorily adjusted and at the meeting held Sunday afternoon the wage agreed upon, after being properly "iced," was distributed among the workmen. Two members of the board were present and drew their full share of wages.

News being scarce, the editor of the Courier dashed off (that is the term used by poets) some really good "poetry" a la Carl Wray. We know it was good, because we wrote it, and as a judge of poetry we yield to no man. It was put on the copy hook. The compositor (our son), upon commencing to put it into type, took a second thought and put it into the waste basket, remarking in tones loud enough for us to hear that one poet in Nodaway county was more than sufficient.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hyde, Thursday, September 21, a fine girl. The little one has been given the name Virginia Maurine. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

During the storm Tuesday night, lightning struck a hay stack on the Frank Miller place east of Clyde. One horse was killed and one so badly burned that there is very little likelihood of its recovery.

HOPKINS JOURNAL.

Hobart H. Proctor returned from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Sunday morning, where he has been spending the last month. While there he got a watergrass beard in his right eye, almost destroying the sight, but is able to see by wearing powerful glasses. Hobart goes to Salina, Kans., the first of October. He has a position there as a photographer, paying him $1,000 per year and all expenses.

John Worley and family, who left here last year to locate on a farm near LaHarpe, Kans., have returned to Hopkins. John says he is out a thousand dollars, but has had the "experience." The dry weather the past season hit the Sunflower state a hard jolt, the farmers raising nothing but a little fodder and hay, but the old-timers there have plenty of money in the banks and will go through the winter without feeling it—the renters and newcomers in general being the ones up against it. John expects to rent a farm near this city and will soon make back what he lost in Kansas.

Several Hopkins people won prizes at the Braddyville Carnival last week—Ed Holker, first on driving team; second on all-purpose team, and second on best matched team. Ira Gray also fared well, getting second on his saddle horse and second on best single driver; while Jeffers Bros. received first on best mule team, and Merve Safley, first on best single driver. Miss Lou Snodgrass won first in the auto potato race and Miss Velma Sheley first for best angel food cake.

Frank Jarred, the well known farmer north of Hopkins, met with an accident in this city last Thursday while driving cattle, his horse falling and throwing him to the ground with such force as to break his collar bone. Dr. Sargent reduced the fracture and Mr. Jarred was then taken home in a car and is now getting along nicely.

Through the agency of Frank Melick, Albert Mutti, the hardware man, is now owner of another farm, buying the Levi Buzzard eighty, nine miles southwest of Hopkins, this week, paying $85 an acre for it.
